Admissions

Envelope upon envelope piled high like the snow in late January, each addressed to

Admissions Office
Bates College

Each containing something more than a transcript, SAT scores, class rank and grades, a record of courses, a few meager essays, questions answered.

Perhaps the sum is greater than the total of its parts after all.

For in each envelope is, in fact, the essence of a being. A human being, age seventeen or eighteen — too young to get into a bar — much less a college. And yet they have tasted life, and gathered from it some essential ingredients, have they not?

The Admissions Office becomes a sieve of sorts, which must capture, ultimately, only pure, refined, true Batesie material, and strain away the rest.

Advice

Leap higher, little Batesie
and linger longer in the air
Suspension is the treasure of the dancer and the dreamer

Stay full of being a student as a balloon is full of air
Don't find out that good times aren't
Good moments, scattered like glitter, are better

So come down lightly for vacation
A family is fun for a few weeks
Run with friends so glad to see you once a year
Then drift back on illusion

The ground is cold
and hard
— a fact
So
Leap higher, little Batesie
and linger longer

BEAT

A story of a man you may have seen at the bus station, on Lisbon St. or even on the Bates College campus.

The General

by Gail Fons

Four o'clock tolled steadily from the roof of the church. At the last sound, Edward stooped to gather his bundles. His plastic gym bag had begun to snap with age and exposure to years of harsh winters, allowing worn newspapers to peek through the holes. Systematically he prepared for the journey, first securing the gym bag in his left hand. Carefully rolling a loose stack of newspapers into a tight bundle, he inched the packet deep into a coat pocket.

Last he slipped on a balding aviator style hood. The frazzled material hung in strips over his forehead like bangs — a grey frame for a grey face. Week old beard stubble crept across his chin, almost to the cap's flaps. Harshly cut wrinkles forked in jagged streaks across the remaining skin.

Blue eyes flickered to their reflection in the church window; he scrutinized the slightly blurred replica of himself, sucking in his stomach and thrusting his chest forward as they had taught him in the army. "Everything must be perfectly timed, Spinney. Perfect-ly timed," a voice drummed in his ears. A sharp bullet of pain shot through his forehead. He moaned, shook his head, and dashed off the steps. No more war, no more remembering. I never existed then, he told himself.

Once the memories had evaporated, Edward slowed his pace, and shuffled up Main Street. Evening was approaching, and the view from the church steps grew dull after dark. As much as people liked to stare at Edward in his unusual attire, he liked to look right back at them. Reading, too, kept him amused. He couldn't be without a newspaper, no matter how outdated the issue. Slowly Edward moved toward the college where there were more people to watch instead of blaring headlights and an occasional scurrying figure.

The late afternoon sun pressed dully against his heavy canvas overcoat. Often people would point at him for wearing it during the summer months, but Edward didn't really care. It made him feel as though he were sacrificing something, suffering perhaps for the good of another. He thought of when he was style-conscious, and would wear only what the fashion magazines dictated. His scalp began to tingle, and quickly he made the vision of his youth disappear.

"Afta'noon, Gen'ral," a voice mumbled from a doorway. Edward glanced to the source and nodded to the disheveled figure.

"Ya wanna sip?" the man waved a bottle filled with oil-colored fluid. Edward smiled at the man's generosity, but continued onward, watching the shifting patterns of greyed pancakes of bubblegum on the sidewalk as he moved uphill.

It was a short walk, and soon after his conversation with the old man, Edward had arrived at the college. Plush green lawns surrounded the stately brick buildings. In the midst of the campus was the snack bar. Edward aimed his steps toward here, pausing inside the door to snatch up a discarded newspaper. When he entered the room, a woman in a green smock whispered loudly to her trainee, "Whatever you do, don't ever charge him for his meals. He's Edward Spinney, one of the Spinneys — the ones that gave all that money to the college."

Smiling, she turned to take Edward's order, patiently deciphering his mumbling. Usually Edward didn't like to waste time, but he was always polite to the women at the college. After all, they fed him without charge. He knew there was a reason for their kindness, but it hurt to try and remember. He ate at the snack bar every night, rarely staying at his house. Usually he would only wander inside to deposit a fresh pile of newspapers when his pockets and the bag overflowed. Unless the weather was extremely harsh, he would sleep on the front porch. The overcoat provided him with enough warmth, and he could wake early and watch the morning commuters as he read a paper.

Edward glanced about the restaurant. It was quiet in the early evening. The students were upstairs eating in the dining hall, and only a few finicky souls had wandered to the snack bar.

In the corner a young coupled giggled over a bowl of tangled frenchfries. He squinted to see their faces. Clara had been his first real love. They had met during high school, but he hadn't seen her since the month after his return from the war. This time he winced softly as the throbbing in his head began. Plunging a gnarled hand deep into his pocket, he fished out the newly found paper.

Social hour at the snack bar soon arrived, and Edward quickly left before it became too noisy. A few of the janitors were friendly to him, so he wandered upstairs, thirsty for conversation. Tonight Charlie was working, or at least he was on duty. Edward went over to the couch where Charlie was sitting, his plump face flickering in the television's pale gaze.

"Evenin', Ed. Why dontcha set yahself right down herah, and watch a bit of the television with me?" Charlie flashed a strip of yellow teeth and patted the chair next to him. Edward grinned faintly, and sank into the seat.

An advertisement for diapers was on, and he watched in mixed horror and revulsion as a row of rashy bottoms flashed on the screen. He snickered and whispered to Charlie, "I wonder what they'll do next." His mouth clamped shut when his eyes returned to the television screen.

In dagger-like formation airplanes swooped low in a blackened sky. The deep-toned narrator began, "February 1945. Germany was weakening, but the Allied Forces needed to make a decisive move to gain enough momentum to win the war. A man named Edward Spinney provided the answer — firebombing, a tactic so deadly that it provided the Allies with the crucial edge, and Major Spinney was given the title of General Spinney by Winston Churchill himself. Under the clever guidance of General Spinney, the city of Dresden, Germany was completely leveled. Over one hundred thousand were dead. Injuries exceeded the deaths by exponential figures. The Allies moved in . . ."

Edward shook himself out of the frozen state the television program had thrown him into. Squeezing his eyes tightly to obliterate the sight of the charred smoking buildings and mutilated bodies, he ran frantically for his house. Charlie's concerned shouts were muffled by his drumming feet. Tears oozed from his eyes. Out of breath and shaken with sobs, he fell onto the porch.

Half an hour later, numbed by his tears, Edward wandered inside. He'd check the newspapers, he thought to himself. They'd prove that the broadcaster had been lying, and then he'd be all right. He checked paper after paper, pile after pile, headline after headline. An hour later, printed in a newspaper sandwiched between a grimy yello tier, he found it. Angry black letters marched across the top of the page, "DRESDEN TORCHED! ALLIED FORCES TRIUMPH!" Another one read, "GENERAL EDWARD SPINNEY BLASTS A VICTORY FOR THE ALLIES."

"No, no, no," he moaned hollowly. His words echoed through the empty bedrooms and vaporized. He held his hands to his forehead and screamed. The room darkened and disappeared.

Crisp morning sunlight splashed through the window. Edward adjusted his tie carefully in the hallway mirror. Placing the general's cap on his neatly arranged hair, he rubbed his smoothly shaven chin and sneered at his reflection. He stepped out into the daylight, pausing to kick a stack of withered newspapers off the porch as he passed. Yes, he knew who he was — General Edward Spinney — mastermind behind one of the most gruesome mass murders in history. His heels clicked as he moved down the steps.

Women's X-C!!!

The 1982 Women's Cross Country Team can boast of the most successful season to date. Under the direction of Coach Carolyn Court, the team completed the season with a 9-3 record, captured the C.B.B. Conference title for the fourth consecutive year, and placed third in the Division III New England Championships.

The team was paced by the consistant top finishes of 1981 All American Rebecca Watt '85, and promising sophomore Nancy Bell '85. Watt and Bell were named to both the All NESCAC and All State Cross Country Teams with their third and fourth place finishes respectively in each. Bell concluded her season by placing 18th in the Open New England Championships, 8th in the Divisions III New England Championships, and 32nd in the NCAA Division III Nationals. Watt had an equally impressive season by finishing first for Bates in all regular season meets, placing 27th in the Open New England Championships, and 11th in the Division III New Englands.

Pam Fessenden '83 led the team as captain for her second year in a row. Consistantly a scorer in every contest during her four years here, she was Bates' first four year letter winner in Cross Country. Pauline Vashon '83 while only having competed for the team for two years, lettered each year. Underclassmen who added the essential depth to the team included Betty Barr '86, Ann Walsh '84, Pamela Levin '85, and Heidi Hersant '85. This years team has established a strong foundation for a promising future. The atheletes are young, dedicated, and have demonstrated a tremendous amount of potential.

Women's Tennis

The overall team record which dipped t 3 and 8 does not reflect the outstandin level of play of the 1982 Bates Women' Tennis Team. There were many highl competetive individual matches.

Team efforts were led by Co-captain Steffani Catanese and Pam French wh alternated play at the #1 and #2 single positions. Catanese compiled a 4-7 regula season record, adding an impressive wi over the #1 singles player from William in the New England Tournament. Frenc led the team with a most impressive 9- record. Second doubles team, Martha Gelbein and Megan Skelly added depth to th team with a season record of 4-4.

Volleyball!!!

According to senior tri-captain Colleen O'Connell, "Volleyball at Bates is like the Malibu beach scene." . . . "There are advantages to playing volleyball. You get to meet some great people and some lifelong friendships develop." . . . "Until now, only the Irish knew about all of these advantages." . . . "There's no excuse not to join."

The enlightened dozen who played volleyball during the 1982 season realized more than the advantages cited by Ms. O'Connell. On the way to their modestly successful season (14-13 match record), they quickly learned the value of a sense of direction and a sense of humor as tri-captains Carolyn Evans and Alison MacDonald led the way on road trips. Despite a few ups and downs on the road to success, the squad was able to find their way to a third place finish in the Maine AIAW Championship which was held in Alumni Gym.

The goal for next season: Road maps for every trip!

Women's Soccer

Triple sessions of practice welcomed the women's soccer team in September. The veterans returned in good condition with senior co-captains Sarah Eusden and Megan Shea leading the assaults on Mt. David, Montello Hill, Thorncrag and by way of relief, Cote's. Newcomers included four freshmen, two tranfers, and seven new upperclassmen.

A 0-0 tie with Middlebury and lunch with President Reynolds started the Bobcats off to their most successful season ever. In one game, versus Thomas College, the team scored as many goals as in the entire two years previous. Against regionally and nationally ranked opponents, the Bates defense held without a score the entire first half. 5-6-1 was the final record, leaving .500 for next year's achievement.

Freshman Denise Barton was named an All-New England fullback, the first at Bates. Transfer Laury Schwartzberg tied the all-time scoring record, Megan Shea bolstered her assist championship, and sophomore back Jeanmarie Hester excelled in whatever statistics were left. Without a returning goalkeeper, newcomer Valerie Greene sprouted hands, captured 121 balls, and won five games.

The most goal productive class ever leaves several challenges behind. Can anyone play as gusty soccer as Kamikaze Kathy Rose? Will anyone return from a years absence like Sarah Jameson and Doria Kutrubes? And finally, who will ever set the pace like Sarah Eusden and Megan Shea?

Field Hockey!!!

For my final act as a captain and poet
I'd like to relive success as we've known it.
First preseason brought the old timers back
For physicals with Jan and double sessions with Yak.
From the start it was FUN. "We're having a good time",
We said as we ran those miles for time.
It Was worth it though cause at the end of the week
We had a barbecue with April for our Labor Day treat.
Next on the scene came the freshman class.
Then we had to work hard 'cause they ran really fast!
For our first big contest against tough competition
We made the customary Smith expedition.
There we breezed right by Williams and Wheaton
And after Amherst and Smith we were still unbeaten.
We returned to face Middlebury for the first win of the year,
Clinching for Yakawonis the 99th of her career.
Number 100 was even more glorious
Cause over Sal and her Polar Bears we were victorious!
We had caligraphy, roses, champagne and tears
To celebrate the success of the past fifteen years.
Then Wheaton was the next team to go
And if not for those two minutes we would've had UMO.
Tufts came out strong, but we came back stronger,
Thanks to a penalty stroke and stickers we lasted much longer.
"First in Division II" had been Bentley's claim to fame,
Then our parents watched us beat them 3-1 in the rain.
After a five-nothing showing at UMF
Gordon tied it up with only seven seconds left.
Despite a noble effort against Division I Holy Cross
We went down fighting but came put with a loss.
We were hit pretty hard by USM
But we had a short vacation once we beat them.
After spaghetti and cupcakes for fuel
We romped all over those Colby Mules!
At Nasson we revitalized our attack,
Scoring six goals, and just in time for NIACs.
We waited to hear, quite anxiously,
Who our opponents for the semi's would be.
Trinity came because Tufts didn't win
And we greeted them with Tootsie Pops at John Martin's Inn.
We scored two quick goals without hesistation
And held them to one with our determination.
Tufts downed Smith so the finals were here,
And some 300 fans came to cheer.
We certainly outplayed them in everyone's eyes.
There has to be a better way to break ties.
But we sure weren't finished winning still.
The States were a dream we had yet to fulfill.
"Force that third party", became the game plan.
At practice we did strokes and the defense ran.
"UMO edges UMF", the headlines read.
So, "Bates is seeded first", Stella McLean said.
UMF looked for an upset and was playing fairly well
Until we turned on the steam and 8-1 they fell.
Then to the finals, hosted by Sal.
She can even paint lines. Oh, what a gal!!!
With us to Bowdoin came the hardcore fans
To cheer us on in our final stand.
We scored the first goal before they knew it
And just kept thinking, "We know we can do it!."
With that final inspiration to be our own heroes
We scored once again and beat U.M.ZERO!
Yes, we had won the championship.
But there was more behind the champagne we sipped.
So many things deserved celebration
And had been a source of inspiration.
Our mega-awesome coaches, Yak, Sof and Anne,
And all of the trainers, especially Jan.
"Have Some Fun" and "Candy of the Day"
Are just a few things that helped us on our way.
The season has been great in all respects,
And looking back we have nothing to regret.
I hate to bring anything about field hockey to an end,
But what we'll always have are the memories of friends.
This saga must end now, as I shed a tear,
To the best team ever and a memorable career.

Men's X-C !!!

The cross country team had an outstanding season of 11 wins and 7 losses. Highlights included an unofficial championship in the 11 team N.E.S.C.A.C. meet held in Boston, a 3rd place finish in the 27 team New England Division III meet, a 5th place finish in the 30 team I.C.A.A.A.A. meet and an 8th place finish in the 35 team All-Division New England meet.

Jamie Goodberlet '85 was consistently the team's #1 runner. Upon qualifying for the N.C.A.A. Division III National Championships at Fredonia, N.Y., he placed 42nd in the field.

Peter Weyand '83 captained this year's team. Although hampered by an injury, he was a tremendous inspiration to the young squad.

The 1982 team ended the season with 11 lettermen. Since 9 of these 11 athletes are returning, the 1983 squad is eagerly looking toward a banner season.

Football!!!

Statistical highlights of the 1982 season included:

— Senior quarterback Mike Heslin's fine season. The Spofford, N.H., resident completed 49.1 percent of his passes and threw for 10 touchdowns, including a record-breaking 74-yarder to Richardson against Amherst on the first scoring play of the season.

— The windup of placekicker Don Sarason's career. The lanky senior from Seattle, Washington, was named the all-star kicker in New England Division 3 by the Eastern College Athletic Conference. He was successful on only 4 of 12 field-goal attempts, an off-year for him, but he hit 16 of 18 extra-point tries, booted booming kickoffs, and even threw a key touchdown pass against Hamilton when a field-goal try was blocked and the ball bounced into his hands. He finished his four years with almost every Bates placekicking record.

— Bates' rugged junior tailback, Charlie Richardson of Hull, Massachusetts; the first Bobcat football player to average more than 100 rushing yards per game since all-time Bates great Tom Carr turned the trick in 1965.

— The punting of sophomore Steve Brackett, who maintained the high standard of graduated all-star Dick Lagg by averaging almost 35 yards per kick.

— The variety in the Bobcat offense: 12 different players caught at least one pass, and 11 were credited with at least one rush.

— The interception crew: Nine different Bobcats picked off a total of 16 enemy passes, just one shy of the team record.

— Bates rushed for 1175 yards in eight games, the most since 1978. The 4-4 Bobcats tallied just 35 fewer total yards than they did while going 6-2 in 1981, but opponents' total offense was up almost 700 yards over a year ago.

Men's Soccer!!!

Despite an abundance of talent, the 1982 Men's Soccer team had a disappointing season marked by a 2-10-0 record. Led by tri-captains Ed Cushing, Kevin Downie and Robbie Hoades the Bobcats did have some close and exciting games.

Their first win came early in the season against Norwich.

Another memorable contest was with the undefeated University of Maine at Farmington. The Farmington team's last season game was on the Bobcat home field. While Bates dominated most of the game by keeping the ball in control, UMF did manage one successful break away resulting in a goal and a 1-0 win for UMF. However the Bobcat's well deserved reward for a demanding season was an exciting 2-1 victory over Bowdoin.

A fine example of the team's perseverance and spirit was Thomas McInerney. He earned the senior award for his leadership effort and outstanding ability.

My mind is too full;
I don't want
A second helping,
A second semester.
Come back
With a fresh face,
But it freezes
Like a vegetable,
When iced by the sight
Of a tablecloth of white
Rippling across the campus.
Walk upon it
With a steamy head
Late at night.
The wind cuts it up,
And takes a bite.

A big old dog
At the heel of a runner
Barking.
Oh the headaches!
That tired aching.
The temptation to lie down
And let those teeth
Tear it all away.
The runner runs on.

A big dead dog.
A fat old ex-runner
Wishing
For the muscles!
That sweet pain.
The will to keep running
Long after exhaustion.
Missing that hateful old pet,
Pressure.

Women's Basketball!!!

Not since 1976-77 had a Bates women's basketball team won more games than it lost. The 82-83 club did this and more. They also set a dozen individual and team records.

The high point of the season was the achievement of senior captain Gail LeBlanc, who became the leading career scorer in team history with 1,117 points. LeBlanc also established a new Bobcat mark for highest fieldgoal percentage.

Also enjoying a standout season were such veterans as sophomore guard Monique Petty, the leading scorer at 12.0 points per game, and senior center Laura Hollingsworth, tops in rebounding with 10.7 caroms per contest. Playing a key role in the Bobcats' success were several younger players. Freshman guard Lisa Kelley became a starter immediately and became a force in scoring, rebounding and playmaking while freshman foreard Leslie Latady was fifth in scoring.

Bates also tied arch-rival Colby for the CBB Conference crown with a 3-1 record, beating the Mules once and Bowdoin twice. Other wins came over MIT, Gordon, Wheaton, and Connecticut College.

Men's Track !!!

Without a doubt the highlight of the 1982-83 indoor track season was defeating UMO to win the Maine State Championship. Shadowing this achievement was a second place finish in the New England Division III Championship. With an outstanding record of 9-3, captains Dan Watson and Pete Weyand spirited the team to one of the most memorable seasons in recent years.

Paul Slovenski led the team in scoring this year with 65 points. He also set a Bates' record with a vault of 14′ 8¾″. Dave Donahue earned the team 53½ points followed in the standings by Jamie Goodberlet, Todd O'Brien and John Raitt. O'Brien, a freshman, also set a new school record of 6:53 in the 55 meter dash.

The 82-83 Bobcats collected numerous state records. Achievers were Slovenski in the Pole Vault and Long Jump, Leonard Morley in the 800 meter run, Steve Ryan in the 35 lb. weight, and Donahue in the High Jump.

Both of Bates' ski squads finished in the middle of the pack in the Eastern Division 1 results. The men placed seventh of the 15 teams in the EISA championships, the women seventh in the 16 in the WEISA. Skiing is Bates' only Division 1 sport.

Senior Cathy Bellucci capped a fine four-year career by qualifying for the NCAA Ski Championships at Montana State University. Bellucci Placed 35th in the giant slalom against America's best college skiers, marking the second straight year Bates has scored points in the NCAAs.

Other standouts in the women's Alpine squad were Sue Kopp, Grace Samolis, Fiona Mactaggart, and Sue Frankenstein. Mainstays of the woman's Nordic team included Ann Benoit, Sue Flynn, Judy Kohin, Karen Drugge, Sarah Eusden, and Laura Hackett.

On the men's side, Vic Otley ended up 28th in end-of-season EISA slalom rankings. Other Bobcat downhillers were Randy Hoder, Mark Stevens, Dave DeSantis, and John Hoyt. Male cross-country specialists included Dan MacDonald (24th in EISA standings) Sam Smith, Joe Zaia, Joel Page, and Peter Gluck.

Women's Track!!!

The first varsity year for women's track was a success. Captained by Patti Strohla '83, the members were able to establish creditable marks in several events. Tracey Zordan '86, Jeanne Harrington '85, and Robin Waterman '85 claimed records in the throws with Val Greene '85 making a close bid. Jennifer Pratt '85 handled the sprints and Camille McKayle '85 the 400m hurdles. Becky Jones '85 dominated the middle distances as she established records in three events. In the distances fine Performances were recorded by Pauline Vashon '83, Kris Carlson '86 and Martha Clary '84. The seasons highlight was Nancy Bell's '85 10th place finish and record setting performance in the 5000m at the NCAA Division III Nationals in Naperville, Illinois.

Softball!!!

A consistently wet spring placed a dampening effect on the 1983 softball season. The Bobcats did manage to pull out with a .500 season playing 12 of their 17 scheduled games. Triumphant games such as Bowdoin, Trinity and Wheaton, all tough contenders, boosted morale on a trying season.

Characterized by a young team, the efforts of seasoned players captain Janet Bursaw and Betsy Whitman helped the team maintain a winning attitude. Bursaw finished the season with a strong .342 batting average and 14 RBI's at the mound, Whitman came through with a 4-3 win-loss record and an impressive .411 batting average.

Experienced returnees such as Georgeanne Ebersold, Monique Petty, Sherry Bennett and Sandy Beal provided this years solid play. Bennett led the team in batting with a .406 and 16 RBI's. Ebersold continued her amazing stealing abilities with 8 in 12 games and relief pitcher Beal boasts a .390 batting average and 11 strike outs. Newcomer Joanna Stevens compiled 56 put outs and Elaine Bailey showed great confidence as catcher.

Women's Lacrosse

This year the women's lacrosse team record did not reflect the talent and ability of the Bates women. The overall record was 3-8.

Two of the losses were to Colby in outstanding games. Each loss was by only one goal. Among their most impressive wins was the contest against Bowdoin on Bowdoin's home field.

Outstanding goal tending by Kate Sweeney resulted in a record best saves percentage of .701. The two leading scorers for Bates were Kristin DeAngelis and Becky Roak. In the area of assists, Felicity Ratte tied Kristin DeAngelis' 1982 record of 4 per game.

Captain Carolyn Campbell led the defense with an outstanding performance including 90 slash interceptions which proved to be a new game, season and career record.

Baseball!!!

Without the services of the seven seniors who graduated in 1982, the baseball team went through a rebuilding year. The final record of 7 wins and 18 losses saw five freshmen and six sophomores gaining valuable varsity experience. With sixteen lettermen returning, the prospects for 1984 certainly look bright.

Three seniors finished their careers this spring. Captain Phil Cronin hit .319, led the team in stolen bases with eleven and played superbly in centerfield. Jeff Davidson registered an early victory over Worcester Poly, but was unable to pitch in other games due to a shoulder injury. Mike Heslin pitched in nine games and made a solid contribution in his first year with the team.

COLBY

Men's Lacrosse!!!

The Bates lacrosse team finished with a successful 6-5 record. On offense the squad was led by captain Tom Main and freshman John Boyle (15 goals, 5 assists). But the real strength of Coach Web Harrison's Bobcats was their defense. Junior goalie Mark Thorburn and defensemen David Hild, Billy Bell and Neal Davidson were brilliant all year, holding opponents to under 10 goals per game.

The highlights of the year were wins over Conn. College, two wins over arch rival Colby and a well played 6-4 loss to ECAC champion Bowdoin. Conn. College has traditionally been a thorn in the Bobcat's side, but the Bobcats jumped off to an early 8-2 lead behind the offensive power of freshman John Boyle and Captain Tom Main. The final result was an 8-4 thrashing of Conn. College.

For the second year in a row the Bobcats defeated arch rival Colby in both of the year's contests. Again, Main, Boyle, and the defense were instrumental in the wins against Colby. Also playing well against the Mules were freshman midfielder Dean Linder, speedster Charlie Adams and Dave Eberhart.

The Bowdoin Polar Bears, New England's finest team, got all it could handle on Garcelon field on May 11th, but Bates eventually lost the game. Sophomore Joe Mirra's great assist to Jeff Garnet closed the gap to 5-4, but that would be the closest the Bobcats would get. The attack of Dan Bliss, Jay Farwell and Jeff Garnet were particularly strong against Bowdoin, but Bates lost 6-4.

Men's Track!!!

The high point of the spring track season was the surprising Bobcat performance against University of Maine — Orono. A three point margin kept Bates from defeating the powerful UMO team and capturing the State Meet. Also, an outstanding performance by Steve Ryan netted an All American title for his javelin toss of 230′6″. In addition, Ryan won the National Division III Championship and placed second in the IC4A and New England All Division Championships.

A time of 14:31.1 by Jamie Goodberlet provided him with a 7th place in the National Division III 5000 Meter Championship. Goodberlet's performance was just shy of an All American title. New records in the state meet were plentiful as evident through Dave Donahue's high jump of 6′4″, triple jump of 43′6¾″ and John Raitt's 141′5½″ hammer throw.

Recognition for consistency, talent and effort was given to Ryan and Goodberlet. Ryan received the NESCAC Frank Sebasteanski Memorial Award and Goodberlet the Robert Plumb Award.

Men's Tennis!!!

On the way to setting a Bates record high win-loss mark of 9-1 the team had important victories against Clark and Middlebury as well as others against WPI, Salem St., So. Maine, Wesleyan, and UMO losing only to Brandeis (6-3). In addition Bates once again won the CBB Tennis title by defeating both Colby and Bowdoin.

Last years Main State Champion Bert Cole, playing first singles, teamed up with second singles player John Luyrink for a powerful first doubles combination.

Third singles player Greg Otis combined with Captain Brad Bjorklund, playing fourth, for the second doubles spot.

Jerry Tatlock, fifth singles, paired up with fellow freshman Greg Fish, playing sixth singles, for the third doubles position.

In tournament play the team reflected its exceptional regular season. The doubles pair of Cole and Luyrink made it to the finals of the NESCAC tournament at Amherst while the two of them and Captain Bjorklund advanced as far as the semi-finals in the singles of the same tournament.

In the Maine State Tournament Otis became the Maine State champion by edging out Tatlock in the finals. Luyrink and Cole won the tournament's doubles match.

In the Bates Invitational Tournament five of the six Bates palyers entered made it to the quarter finals and two of these to the semi-finals. In the finals Luyrink was beaten by a nationally ranked player.

Intercollegiate Golf

Of the eight golfers who finished the season only one is a senior, Captain Rich Bennett. Although Rich will be missed, the future appears bright as the remaining golfers are predominantly freshmen and sophomores.

The team finished fourth in a field of seven in the state tournament and had one of their better New England tournaments in years. The strength of the 1984 team lies in the hands of Don Erickson '84, Mark Fleming '85, Steve Sugrue '86 and Jeff Miller '86.

Bates College

A moment, like any other in its nonexistence,
but how long has been its prelude of
I wonder and I wonder and too soon, too soon . . .
Stand beside your heavy car;
look at a campus
unfamiliar in emptiness;
say "this is it."
And drive away.

Calendar

September: Members of the faculty, the administration, and the student body convened early in the month for the fourteenth annual Sugarloaf Conference. The role of values in Liberal Arts was the central theme of discussion at the weekend conference . . .

Rebecca Swanson '82 took over the position of Housing Coordinator and was faced with overcrowding as a large freshman class entered Bates . . .

The 1981-1982 Bates Student was presented with an award by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association . . .

Late in the month, the Representative Assembly (RA) at last approved a budget for extracurricular activities for the year . . .

Beginning with a human issues forum on sexism in society, sexism at Bates became a highly controversial issue and stayed that way for many months . . .

The issue of divestment of companies involved in South Africa was also a subject of controversy. Over the summer the trustees voted to commend the financial committee for divesting of Morgan Guarantee Trust, but they did not call for complete divestment of all the companies involved with South Africa.

October: The college declined an offer by CBS-TV to televise its football game against Middlebury because of conflicts with "Back-to-Bates" weekend . . .

At the White House, President Reagan expressed "shock" at the death of a U.S. marine in Lebanon . . .

A brand new pipe organ was inaugurated during a concert by Marion Anderson in the college chapel . . .

In mid-October the Gay Straight Alliance (GSA) made headlines by taking action against the Newman Council for its refusal to sponsor gays . . .

Consumer advocate Ralph Nadar spoke to a large audience of Bates students about the importance of becoming "better, more active consumers" . . .

Noted musician and feminist Holly Near

- RALPH NADER
- TIMOTHY LEARY
- HOLLY NEAR
- LIVINGSTON TAYLOR

performed a memorable concert for students as well as members of the outside community.

November: Nationwide, Democrats swept the '82 elections. In Maine George Mitchell beat Republican challenger David Emory, and Governor Joseph Brenan won reelection over Republican Charles Cragin. However Republican Olympia Snow was reelected to her third term in the House . . .

Kevin Raye, a Bates junior who ran for state representative in Maine, was one of many Republicans defeated . . .

The Bates Theater Department performed the stunning Greek tragedy, Iphigeneia at Aulius . . .

Three students accused of placing a dead deer in a third floor Adams dorm room received letters of censure from the student conduct committee . . .

The volleyball team finished third in Maine championships . . .

Once again the Sadie Hawkins Dance became a topic of controversy, and once again the dance was held as usual. However, it was marked by low attendance.

December: The Bates field hockey team finished a remarkable season by winning the Maine state Tournement . . .

Students returned from Thanksgiving break to find several thousands of dollars worth of belongings missing from their rooms. WRBC reported that over one thousand dollars in sound equipment had been taken.

January: Amiri Baraka, a renowned American poet and civil rights activist, gave a moving lecture and poetry reading in the Bates chapel . . .

Neal Davidson '83 was named an Academic All-American by the College Sports Information Directors of America . . .

The 1983 Winter Carnival opened with the theme of the "Wild, Wild West." Although only a week earlier the ground had been bare, the Carnival was saved by a heavy downfall of the essential ingredient — snow. One of the highlights of the Winter Carnival was a performance of unique, rhythmic jazz by the Heath Brothers.

February: Early in the month President of the College T. Hedley Reynolds issued a statement expressing the college's reluctance to comply with the Military Selective Service Act known as the "Solomon" Amendment . . .

The men's track team earned the Maine state title . . .

Controversy surrounding actions by the GSA escalated . . .

The Goldston Event's topic of focus was "Feminism in the '80's." Mary Daly, a well-known radical separationist, was featured as one of the speakers sponsored by the event . . .

In mid-February the remarkable Guarnari String Quartet performed a variety of musical styles in the college chapel . . .

A sit-in protesting discrimination against homosexuals by the armed services was held at the OCC. Attending the sit-in were students, faculty members, and reporters from the Associated Press, United Press International, the Boston Globe, and several local TV and radio stations . . .

The heated controversy surrounding the GSA and Military recruitment policies at Bates peaked when GSA President Phil Crawford invited members of the KKK to Bates (to test the "open forum" policy) and then resigned his post as president amidst a whirlwind of protest.

March: President T. Hedley Reynolds announced that tuition for the 1983-1984 academic year will be $11,500 . . .

A Federal Court in Minnesota ruled that the Solomon Amendment is unconstitutional. Debate of the issue at Bates and across the country continued . . .

The theater department presented the student body with an amazing fantasy in its production of A Dream Play by August Strindberg . . .

The Bates Modern Dance Company did its usual outstanding job in its yearly performance . . .

Calendar

President T. Hedley Reynolds returned from a fundraising and good-will tour of Japan . . .

The possibility of instituting an Honor Code became a hot topic of debate as the year neared a close . . .

April: Students rallied outside while faculty members delayed voting on the GSA-Military issue . . .

Soccer player Doria Katrubes and football and lacrosse player Neal Davidson were named winners of tha annual Milton L. Lindholm Scholar-Athlete Awards . . .

During short-term President T. Hedley Reynolds stated that the college will comply with the much-disputed Solomon Amendment.

June: Dr. Bernard Lown, founder of Physicians for Social Responsibility delivered an unusual commencement address . . .

The sun emerged from behind a hazy morning as the last member of the class of 1983 received his diploma.

SPECIAL THANKS

Joe Gromelski — I always wondered just who Joe Gromelski '74 was. Editors of the past yearbooks always seemed to mention him under "Special Thanks." — For what, I always wondered. I mean how much can somebody who graduated in 1974 really know. After all, he hasn't been in the "real" world that long. — Well, I found out just who Mr. Joseph Michael Gromelski, the government major, from Dudley, Mass. is, but I'm not telling. — Thanks Joe.

J. Cole Harris — Once again Cole Harris demonstrated that he knows all there is to know about publishing yearbooks. Cole worked with us all the way. When we needed extra time, Cole arranged it. When we needed technical information on layout procedures, Cole secured it. When cost cutting methods were available, Cole introduced them to us. The only thing that Cole Harris didn't do was pay for our yearbook. Oh well. — J. Cole Harris is a representative of the Taylor Publishing Company.
